

It is important to understand that our forests are universal and directly or indirectly affect everyone in the world. With more and more of a demand being put on our environment and natural resources, it is getting harder and harder for this world to sustain itself. Our forests are a valuable part of these natural resources and education is the key to arm tomorrow's decision makers with the information needed to make sound decisions to properly manage our forests on a sustainable basis. Through its Sponsor-A-School Program, Red Panda Productions Ltd. is seeking and would greatly appreciate companies to sponsor games in schools in other areas in which they operate.

Red Panda Productions would be able to supply the games at a discount of $42.00. It would be an average of about $13.00 per game for shipping and handling depending on where the games are being shipped to. The total per game would be $55.00 plus GST.

We could also look at putting a company logo on the games or having a company representative presenting the games to the schools and do some kind of news article on it in their local papers or contact other media at your request. We are also going to print kids t-shirts with Reggie the Ranger on them and adult t-shirts. We could include a company logo on them as part of our team. Click on the T-shirt icon to view a sample of the t-shirt. Mysteries of the Forest is more than just a boardgame. We are trying to promote an awareness of the importance of our forests and other natural resources and are currently working and several other ways or displaying our message. We know companies like yours take pride in the managing our natural resources. We believe this is one way your company can portray this message and reach out to children about the importance or properly managing these resources. Education is the key and we must find attractive ways to gain the interest of our youth about the importance of our environment. I believe that society is starting to address this issue but there still isn't adequate material, especially in our schools, drilling this message into our students. Mysteries of the Forest Trivia Boardgame is definitely not the only answer, but it is one tool we can use to educate and gain kids interest.

Thanks for your time and for considering being part of the Red Panda Productions Ltd. Team to promote Forest Stewardship and Sustainability of our Natural Resources.
